

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A structure with significant topography enhancements over the traditional composite dielectric structure is provided. Topography reduction at this level of the device structure significantly enhances critical dimension control of subsequent device patterns through reduced depth of focus requirements during lithography, and reduced over-etch requirements.